HOGWARTS
DRACO DORMIENS NUNQUAM TITILLANDUS

✦ The Dwarves & The Wizards ✦

after the kingdoms were shaken, and the world left in ashes

a whisper rose among the builders and the magicians.

“Raise for yourselves a holy place,”

spoke the voice of the Dragon.

“Build for yourselves a covenant of stone and spell.

When judgment is past,

your thrones shall rise again.”

And behold,

four founders were chosen—

the wise,

the cunning,

the bold,

and the pure.

They laid the foundation of Hogwarts:

a gleaming court,

a fortress of lies,

a holy place of shadows

It was raised in favor of the covenant of the Dwarves, yet without Spirit.

It carried the legacy of the dwarves,

builders of kingdoms seeking a Messiah of iron.

shaped by sorcery

the craft of Wizards,

spells woven as wisdom.

Thus the Ministry of Magic had begun.

And beside Hogwarts,

a temple was raised—

Erebor

a house of abundance for the Dwarves, a treasury of men’s wealth.

Erebor was promised anew,

but not by the hand of the Lord.

It was whispered by the deceiver,

a false covenant after judgment,

a throne for the proud,

a temple for the rebellious.

And the people marveled.

“Behold,

the holy place has come!” they cried.

They signed their names for Hogwarts.

Their children were trained in shadows,

taught spells to rule tomorrow,

leaders of rebellion against a fallen world.

Thus was sealed the union of Dwarves and Wizards,

a covenant of iron and spell,

raised against the Lord of Heaven.